

15th International Conference on Language and Social Psychology

Now Accepting Works in Progress

The International Association of Language and Social Psychology (www.ialsp.org) is now accepting Works in Progress to be presented and “workshopped” at the upcoming 15th International Conference on Language and Social Psychology (ICLASP) which will be held June 22-25th, 2016 in Bangkok, Thailand.

Deadline: 1st April, 2016

Works in Progress is a new category of submissions for ICLASP and will give presenters a unique opportunity to present a “work in progress” and engage in a small group discussion about the work among a group of distinguished and emerging international scholars including journal editors and reviewers. The goal is to provide presenters with specific feedback in order to move the research from a “work in progress” to a “work in press” (or similar outcome). The Works in Progress presentations are a natural extension to the supportive networking and mentoring opportunities that are already at the core of the International Association of Language and Social Psychology. We encourage Works in Progress submissions from first year graduate students to emeritus professors recognizing that all scholarship is enhanced when it is shaped by a larger social scientific community!

Send Works in Progress Submissions to: iclaspliroad@gmail.com with “ICLASP works in progress” in the subject line by April 1st, 2016.

Works in Progress submissions should be a single file containing:

- (i) The names and complete contact information of all authors with a clear indication of who will present the paper.
- (ii) A 250 word (maximum) abstract of the work in progress clearly indicating what work remains to be completed and a specific statement about the goal for the paper.
- (iii) A list of 3-5 specific questions authors would like to discuss during the work-shop session.

Please note that (i) all submissions and presentations need to be in English; (ii) by submitting a proposal for presentation at ICLASP15 you are agreeing to register for and attend the conference should your paper/symposia be accepted.

PLEASE ALSO NOTE: ALTHOUGH THE PRIORITY DEADLINE FOR REGULAR ICLASP SUBMISSIONS HAS ALREADY PASSED, WE CAN REVIEW ADDITIONAL PAPER AND SYMPOSIA PROPOSALS UP UNTIL APRIL 1ST, 2016 ON A CASE-BY-CASE BASIS (see www.ialsp.org/conferences)
